ENSURING SUCCESS FOR ALL STUDENTS!

The Slingerland® Institute for Literacy is a non-profit public corporation founded in 1977 to provide information and training to classroom teachers.

The Slingerland® Institute offers intensive education courses in the philosophy and use of the Slingerland® Classroom Adaptation of the Orton-Gillingham Approach to Language Arts instruction.

Slingerland® is considered a "thinking-teacher's" approach providing strategies for teaching reading, writing, spelling and oral and written expression. These courses are taught by professional instructors who are approved by the Slingerland® Institute.

Some of the participants from the 2005 Slingerland Comprehensive Training in New Mexico.

Slingerland SUMMER SESSIONS:

Research based, multisensory structured language instruction that teaches patterns for the automatic association of the auditory, visual and kinesthetic learning modalities.

The Slingerland® Approach requires direct instruction in all concepts with continuing student-teacher interaction.

In this summer course, learn how to present information including phonemic awareness, phonics, vocabulary, fluency and comprehension, along with spelling and writing — so the visual, auditory and kinesthetic-tactile pathways are used simultaneously to enhance student academic performance.

Enhance your teaching skills and grow in your understanding of what research indicates is needed for all children to be successful in reading and writing.

The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development considers reading failure to reflect not only an educational problem, but also a significant public health problem. NICHD's research at multiple sites has yielded basic information about teaching reading. The Slingerland Approach meets or exceeds each of the NICHD Criteria for effective instruction.

Testimonials

Recent Course participants have stated:

"Using the multi-sensory approach in class will allow me to reach all the kids in a way that makes sense to them."

"This course actually provides hands-on experience with direct feedback!"

"I fully believe in the Slingerland Approach to teaching. I have seen, first hand what it does for kids."

"Being able to watch a demo class makes the learning come alive. Being able to work with a child helps the learning stick."

"This course is appropriate for new teachers who need to strive to be better teachers — it gives you the tools and feedback to do so."
