

Bringing Theatre into the Classroom

"The best professional development workshop I've ever taken!"
BTiC Alumni

July 8-12, 2013

BTiC is an engaging, fun, five-day intensive summer workshop that will teach you ways to integrate drama into your entire curriculum.

Think of it as summer camp—only with better food and WAY better activities. Get all the tools you need to integrate art into your classroom on a daily basis. Seattle Repertory Theatre and our partners Seattle Children's Theatre and Book-It Repertory Theatre bring you the best summer workshop you'll ever take!

- In addition to the hands-on workshops offered throughout the week, you'll have the opportunity to "try out" curriculum in a supportive environment with professional Teaching Artists and our resident Teen Interns, then walk away with an extensive resource notebook. Clock hours and university credit are available.
- In addition to the week-long summer intensive, you'll sign up for a follow-up during the school year. A member of the BTiC faculty will travel to your school and work as collaborator, coach, or co-teacher, as you integrate lessons learned during the summer workshop into practical lesson plans.

Seattle Children's Theatre

SEATTLE REPERTORY THEATRE

Contact:

Scott Koh
(206) 443-2210 ext 1043
scottk@seattlerep.org

Applications available online at <http://www.seattlerep.org/Programs/ForTeachers/Development>

July 8-12, 2013

Tuition: $500

Scholarships and Group
Discounts Available!

