Jim Frabutt is a faculty member in the Alliance for Catholic Education at the University of Notre Dame, and a Fellow in the Center for Social Concerns and within the Institute for Educational Initiatives. Author of seven books and many articles, his most recent book is Beyond Academics: Supporting the Mental, Emotional, and Behavioral Health of Students in Catholic Schools (2013). He has presented at several conferences including the National Outreach Scholarship Conference, the National Youth At-Risk Conference, the American Educational Research Association, and the National Catholic Educational Association. He has a bachelor's degree in psychology and Italian (University of Notre Dame) and masters and doctoral degrees in human development and family studies (University of North Carolina at Greensboro).

Hanna Bogen is a Speech-Language Pathologist and Social-Cognitive Specialist with Communication Works (CW) in Oakland, CA. With a primary focus on therapies and interventions that support self-regulation and social communication, Hanna provides individual and group therapy at the CW Center. She also consults and collaborates in multiple Bay Area Catholic schools to bring social-regulation, executive functioning, mindfulness, and social-cognitive strategies into the classrooms. Hanna has trained K-12 teachers around the Bay Area to support them in meeting the needs of all learners in their classrooms. Hanna holds a bachelor of arts (Linfield College) and a master of science (University of Washington).
