

Preparing English Learners for the Language Demands of Academic Interaction and Writing (Grades 4-12)

Wednesday & Thursday, June 28 & 29, 2017

8:30 AM – 3:30 PM

This workshop will focus on developing the educators' pedagogy to effectively engage diverse learners in improving students' language, literacy, classroom collaboration and text-dependent writing, and providing practical guidance and resources to help all students become more agile and confident communicators in reading, writing, listening and speaking.

Participants will learn effective ways to:

- Engage learners at every English proficiency level in academic discussions
- Explicitly teach high-utility words linked to academic speaking and writing competencies
- Introduce and unpack a model paper exemplifying the elements of a CCSS-aligned writing type (narrative, opinion, informative, argument, summary-response)
- Frontload rhetorical conventions and academic language for specific writing types
- Write effective language objectives addressing academic interaction and writing demands
- Set up and monitor productive student collaboration including language targets
- Provide a student-friendly analytical rubric that specifies the attributes of the writing type

It is highly recommended that individuals attend in TEAMS (Gen. Ed., ELA, and ELL teachers; Principals; and district ELL and ELA Directors).

12 Clock Hours for $24 will be available.

DR. KATE KINSELLA

Kate Kinsella, Ed.D. is a teacher educator at San Francisco State University and a highly-sought after speaker and consultant to school districts and state departments throughout the US. A teacher's teacher, she maintains active K-12 classroom involvement by writing curriculum, teaching demonstration lessons, and coaching both teachers and administrators. She is the author of widely-used instructional programs to support English learners and under-resourced classmates, including READ 180, English 3D, and the Academic Vocabulary Toolkit.
